BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION

Jeremy Solomons is an executive coach with Executive Coaching Network, Inc. (EXCN). He coaches, consults, designs curriculum and facilitates in the areas of: Alliances & Partnering; Cultural Competence; Global Citizenship; Internal Marketing; Leader Development; Post-Merger Integration and Synergy; Remote and Virtual Teaming; and Strategic Planning to current and future leaders around the world from his base in Austin, Texas, USA.

In the past, Jeremy managed a diverse staff and worked with clients and colleagues from all over the globe, while employed as a full-time Banker, Educator and Journalist in six multinational institutions: Citibank, JP Morgan, Lloyds Bank International, Reuters News Agency, United Press International and the World Bank.

He has lived, studied and worked for extended periods in eight countries: France, Germany, Hong Kong (and China), Israel, Italy, Switzerland, the UK and the USA. He has also traveled and done business in some 40 countries around the Asia-Pacific, Europe and North America.

Born in Manchester, England - home of the Industrial Revolution and Manchester United - Jeremy holds MA and BA Honors degrees in French from the University of Oxford (Brasenose College). As well as speaking mother-tongue English, he has been fluent in French, German, Italian and US American, and proficient in Spanish. He has also studied Cantonese, Hebrew, Russian and Swiss German.

He is currently writing a book: The Truly Global Organization of the Future. He has just co-written a web-based training module on Global Diversity and Inclusion; he contributed to a 2003 book: Global Leadership: The Next Generation; and co-wrote a chapter in a 2000 book: Coaching for Leadership. The 2000 and 2003 books were both based on a year-long study - Global Leadership: The Next Generation - that he co-researched and -wrote for Accenture.

Jeremy is adjunct faculty at the University of Texas' Professional Development Center in Austin, TX; the Intercultural Management Institute at American University in Washington, DC; and the Centre for Intercultural Communication at the University of British Columbia in Vancouver, BC.

Jeremy lives in Barton Hills near downtown Austin with his US wife, Lily; UK-US daughter, Emma; and a bevy of New Mexican and Texan cats and dogs.
